Sport for social change among children and adolescents

Short description:

GAME is working to create lasting social change through street sports for children and adolescents. GAME has established innovative facilities and educate young leaders and role models in street sports, organising training and competitions in street basketball, street soccer, street dance and street fit for children across disadvantaged neighbourhoods in Lebanon. The young volunteers – called Playmakers – run the practices in the local GAME Zones. GAME Playmakers educate local youth from residential areas as GAME Playmakers. The programme equips young people to conduct weekly training sessions in street sports and street culture in 9 GAME Zones in Lebanon and 26 GAME Zones in Denmark. GAME's mission is to create lasting social change through youth-led street sports and culture. GAME strives for a world with equal opportunities for all children and youth.
